

VALENTINE WEEK IN SOCIAL WORLD

Many Entertainments to Be Given and Cupid's Billet Doux Will Fly.

WEDDINGS OF INTEREST

Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson to Entertain Bridesmaids of Miss Atkins.

How thrills once more the lengthening chain
Of memory at the thought of thee!
Old hopes which long in dust have lain, Old dreams come thronging back again,
And boyhood lives again in me.

I feel its glow upon my cheek;
Its fulness of the heart is mine;
As when I learned to hear thee speak, Or raised my doubtful eye to thine.

I hear again thy low replies,
I feel thy arm within my own;
And timidly again I rise
The fringed lids of hazel eyes, With soft brown tresses overblown.

Ah, memories of sweet summer eves,
Of moonlit wave and willow way,
Of stars and flowers, and dewy leaves, And smiles and tones more dear than they!

Valentine Week.

Sunshine and sweet airs, it is hoped, will go with the gayest and most sentimental festival of all the year.

All the world loves a lover, and the valentine lover especially. The twentieth century is in many ways a renaissance period, and the pretty conceits displayed this year might indicate that there is a return from extravagant and cumbersome forms that have prevailed to the daintier and more delicate fancies which have a text in verse to accompany the embellishment and voice and feeling charmingly veiled in verse.

Poetry seems the natural language of love, and the valentine without poetry is short of half its delights. Violets and roses are doubly lovely, and twice as sweet on Valentine's eve, if lurking amid their mass of perfumed petals Cupid's message, written from the heart, through the pen, is found by the happy maiden to whom the flowers are sent.

It is true the world has grown practical, but men and women should never be so practical as to banish sentiment, or to forget that life would lose much of its brightness and tenderness, if the gallant courtesies attendant upon the anniversary of good Saint Valentine should be forgotten.

Valentines, flowers, and the song of birds all seem to be linked together and mingled with the spring-time of the year, of the heart, and of life. For hundreds of years love tokens have been exchanged on February 14th, and the fashion is still perennial, one of the graceful habits of existence which prevails by force of fitness.

Society Last Week.

Society was agreeably busy last week, receptions, dinners and teas following each other in rapid and bewildering succession. Mrs. Willard's card party and theatre-party to see John Drew on Monday, made a brilliant beginning for the week. Several boxes and the boxes held Mrs. Willard's guests. After the performance, the entire party went to the Jefferson Hotel for supper.

The "Greenhorn Club," the most popular bridge whist organization in Richmond society, was entertained last week by Mrs. Garrett Wall. Among other card hostesses of the week were Mrs.
Aston Starke and Miss Etta Hayes.

Mrs. Beverly B. Munford gave Friday from 5 to 7 P. M., one of the handsomest receptions of the season. Mrs. Munford's spacious colonial house had the whole lower floor thrown open. The reception was given in honor of Mrs.
Safford and Miss Mary Safford, of New York, and Mr. Theodore Marburg, of Baltimore, was the guest of honor. Mrs.
Gould, of New York, was one of the receiving party, and the reception was attended largely, not only by Mrs. Munford's Richmond friends, but by many prominent members of the Virginia Senate and Assembly.
